TURNING COURAGE INTO CHANGE

TOMORROW'S WOMEN

2026: IMPACT AT A GLANCE

In a time of profound pain and division, Tomorrow's Women continues to create opportunities for young Palestinian and Israeli women to build relationships across difference and imagine a future beyond conflict. Through dialogue, trauma-informed healing, leadership development, and public engagement, we are investing in a generation determined to make its voice heard—and its leadership count.

Teen Leadership Program: Switzerland

Jewish Israeli and Palestinian teens participated in a six-month leadership journey with a capstone gathering in Switzerland. Participants explored what it means to listen across divides, challenge assumptions, and imagine a better, women-led future.

86% reported an increased understanding of the importance of the role women play in peacebuilding

> "Coming together like this—Palestinians and Israelis, Muslims, Christians, and Jews, from the West Bank and from Israel—is not only unusual, it is an act of resistance." – Alma, 16

Futures Lab: Investing in early-career changemakers, Northern Ireland

Futures Lab, our new advanced leadership initiative in partnership with the Nobel Women's Initiative, trains young activists in diplomacy, public speaking, conflict transformation, and moral imagination to shape the future of democracy in Israel and Palestine. The 2026 capstone gathering took place in Annalong, Northern Ireland.

94% of participants reported trusting people from other communities as partners in positive change

> "Futures Lab strengthened my confidence, expanded my perspective, and motivated me to take a more active role in my community and in political and social change." - Hadeel, 25

"In a reality that demands we see each other as enemies, choosing to stand together is the most radical defiance. In a world that insists our futures must be built at each other's expense, we dare to imagine one built together."

- Futures Lab participant, 2026

162 participants engaged in our programs this year, expanding our community to 890.

42 public events, partnerships, and speaking engagements brought our message to wider audiences, fostering dialogue and anti-polarization.

"When people ask, why do you have hope? Where is the future going? I say, these women are the answer to both."

Expanding Opportunity: English for Leadership

Language opens doors to education, advocacy, and leadership. Our English for Leadership program helps young Palestinian women build the skills and confidence to participate in our advanced programming, and engage more fully with the wider world.

Reclaiming Civic Space and Building Community: Women of Dialogue

In partnership with Holy Land Trust, ACT for Conflict Resolution, and the Jerusalem Center for Women, this program engaged 80 women from East Jerusalem, Bethlehem, and Ramallah in compassionate listening, mediation, negotiation, and trauma-informed support to foster lasting community impact.

Building Connections to the Land: EcoPeace x Tomorrow's Women

Through guided hikes, ecotherapy, and environmental engagement, women came together in Battir, in the West Bank, to strengthen their connection to the land and shared capacity for action.

Voices from Gaza: She Writes, She Leads & U.S. Peace Ambassadors

This year's cohort meets in a tent in Gaza City.

Capturing powerful stories of resilience, responsibility and survival, She Writes, She Leads is an English-language creative writing program in Gaza. As part of the program, participants collaborate with American teens through our Peace Ambassadors program, using storytelling as a way to bear witness and remind us that listening is not passive. It is the beginning of connection, responsibility and action.

TW Talks

TW Talks participants share their lives with audiences around the world. Through public conversations, educational partnerships, advocacy, and storytelling, they are challenging polarization and advancing nuanced, human conversations about Palestine and Israel.

> "Tomorrow's Women has provided us with the opportunity to join forces and combine voices to call for justice and peace on a platform which is as invaluable as it is rare." - Danielle, 34

2027: The Power to Shape What Comes Next

The future will not be shaped by those who accept the status quo, but by those willing to create new possibilities. Tomorrow's Women helps turn connection into action and leadership into lasting impact.
